Key Findings: Office of International Programs

- Compared to CSU overall, the division of international programs (IPO) had lower average agreements in nearly all organizational themes in 2021, except for work culture, department/unit climate, and respect. Rates were lowest (<50%) regarding department/unit climate and division/college and department/unit leadership accountability. Extremely high rates (41%) were reported around favoritism, which is undesirable.
- Compared to college/division overall, women had lower average agreements across all themes, particularly regarding college/division and department/unit leadership accountability. Transgender and gender nonconforming employees had the lowest rates (<30%) regarding work culture and respect. T/NB/NC also reported the highest agreements (60%) regarding favoritism, followed by men at 45%.
- Compared to college/division overall, racially minoritized employees had lower average agreements in nearly all themes in 2021, with lowest rates around college/division and department/unit leadership accountability.
- Compared to college/division overall, racially minoritized and state classified employees reported undesirable average agreements across all organizational themes, with extremely high rates (55% 60%) for favoritism, respectively.
- When looking at perceptions over time for the division, we found a decrease in average agreements in nearly all themes in 2021 compared to 2018, except for encouragement around discussions related to diversity. However, average agreements were lowest (<50%) regarding campus climate and retention of employees from diverse backgrounds.
- While there was a decrease in reported discriminatory attitudes in nearly all themes in 2021 compared to 2018, we found less desirable average agreements related to discriminatory behaviors related to nationality/country of origin.
- Additionally, there was an increase in problematic behaviors related to bullying and sexual harassment in 2021 compared to 2018. We found a slight decrease in problematic behaviors regarding verbal abuse in the division.
